Annual Report of the Office of Insurance Commissioner
Covering Events and Activities From
July 1, 1978 through June 30, 1979

The 1977-78 fiscal year was a period marked by growth and refinement in Insurance Commissioner Dick Marquardt's office, as the commissioner took steps to improve the manner in which the insurance industry is regulated in Washington and initiated measures to save taxpayers money by streamlining office procedures.

Commissioner Marquardt's efforts included ongoing consumer education programs and the development of consumer protection regulations to supplement the office's existing vigorous consumer protection effort.

Highlights of the Insurance Commissioner's consumer protection effort for this period include the creation and adoption (following a hearing procedure) of two key regulations, "The Unfair Claims Settlement Practices Regulation" and the "Medicare Supplement Disclosure Regulation."

The Unfair Claims Settlement Practices Regulation defines unfair or deceptive methods of competition and practices and defines certain minimum standards for insurance companies to meet when dealing with citizens. Companies showing a pattern of violating provisions of the regulation can be fined or have their license to do business in Washington suspended or revoked. The regulation became effective September 1, 1978.

The Medicare Supplement Disclosure Regulation requires that a "Medicare Supplement Disclosure Form" be given to everyone who purchases an individual health insurance policy or contract providing benefits that are sold to, or represented as being designed to supplement Medicare. This regulation provides a substantially uniform disclosure form to all citizens of the state, regardless of the company they deal with. The regulation became effective August 1, 1978.

Two other vitally important consumer protection efforts came from Commissioner Marquardt's office during this time. The two, companions, speak to the sale and solicitation of life insurance and annuities and become effective January 1, 1980, and April 1, 1980, respectively.

The regulations require cost and benefit disclosures, the delivery of policy summaries and a buyers guide to consumers and establish general rules to be followed by companies and agents in the solicitation and sale of life insurance, annuities and deposit funds.

Helping People

On a day to day basis, Commissioner Marquardt's consumer protection efforts paid off in a real way for many Washington consumers. During the fiscal year the consumer protection division received an estimated 126,000 contacts (phone calls, letters and personal visits) in the course of its helping consumers with their problems. In addition to people receiving help by calling or visiting the office, many people had problems or questions serious enough for the office to open a file on the matter. Last year 6,590 such files were processed. Finally, a percentage of the people coming to Commissioner Marquardt's office for help, received money from insurance companies as a result of this office's efforts. From July '77 through June '78 some $3,074,328 was recovered for insurance consumers above what their insurance companies originally offered.

Productivity Task Force

In an effort to improve the efficiency of the Insurance Commissioner's office, Commissioner Dick Marquardt invited a "Productivity Task Force" in to look over office operations for a month, beginning January, 1978.

The group, made up of loaned executives, representatives from labor, and consumers, was given a free hand to look into all aspects of how the office conducted its business and did so at no expense to the taxpayers of Washington.

Following their survey of work flow patterns, interviews, and other research, the task force made recommendations in four areas: organization, communications (internal and external), administrative systems, and service delivery. The overall report of the task force was detailed and extensive. In the months following the task force report, virtually every recommendation that could be implemented without spending additional money was acted upon. The result was a smoother, more cost effective and efficient operation providing better service to both the consumer and the insurance industry in Washington.

SHIBA

The Senior Health Insurance Benefits Advisors program initiated by Commissioner Marquardt to help older citizens learn how to help their friends and neighbors with insurance questions and problems has been a complete success.

Volunteers have been trained in virtually every area of the state with ongoing troubleshooter programs established in Bellingham, Bremerton, Port Angeles, Vancouver, Hoquiam/Aberdeen, Olympia, Seattle, Tacoma, Longview, Richland, Yakima, Moses Lake, Ellensburg, Wenatchee, and Long Beach.

Each group of trainees (classes average about 25 individuals) goes out into the senior citizen community they are familiar with to help older citizens with the complex issues surrounding insurance to supplement Medicare. The volunteers teach people how to avoid "rip off" schemes, they help seniors understand their insurance and they arrange to have experts help people with technical or very complex problems.

Forums

Commissioner Marquardt's consumer education efforts during fiscal year 1978 included scheduling public insurance forums at shopping centers and other gathering places around the state. At these forums insurance experts are available to help people answer questions and solve problems. The forums provide the Commissioner and his staff with an opportunity to teach citizens how to shop for the best insurance deal and how to avoid "rip off" artists or "con games."

A forum was held at the downtown Seattle Bon Marche especially to help senior citizens with problems and questions and to provide general insurance information and trouble-shooting services to anyone who needed them. This forum was a direct result of the SHIBA program and spawned several similar forums around the state.

Licensing

During the 1978 fiscal year 5,860 agent's and other examinations were scheduled and 4,469 administered. The licensing section approved 11 482 bonds during this time and processed 3,783 agent withdrawals, while 3,343 new licensees joined the agent force here. In addition, 15,144 licenses and appointments were processed during this period.

Rates and Forms

During fiscal year 1978 about 21,530 insurance policies and related forms were reviewed and analyzed. An additional 2,271 rates, rating plans and rules were reviewed and decision made on their use in this state.

Company Supervision

In addition to ongoing financial review of insurance companies and other auditing, Commissioner Marquardt's company supervision section approved 11 life insurance company mergers or title changes and 19 casualty company mergers or title changes. During fiscal year 1977, 44 casualty companies and 42 life companies were admitted to Washington.

ARSON FOR PROFIT--ITS IMPACT ON THE NATION--AND WASHINGTON STATE The United States Senate conducted hearings in 1978 that revealed the magnitude of the crime of arson in the United States. The Hearings, in fact, identified arson as the nation's fastest growing and costliest crime. Testimony by a professional arsonist indicated that a "torch" could earn as much as $300,000 per year. The professional arsonist knew that there was a 91 percent chance that his crime would not be detected. Furthermore, if detected and arrested, there was even a slimmer chance (less than 2 percent) that the arsonist would be convicted. This high-profit, low-risk business soon attracted the attention of organized crime, and major arson rings developed in such areas as Boston, Philadelphia, New York and Tampa, Florida. Fire-for-hire had indeed become a profitable enterprise of organized crime.

Although evidence clearly demonstrated that property losses from incendiary fires exceeded losses from robbery, burglary, larceny and auto theft, arson was classified in the nation's Uniform Crime Report (UCR) along with minor offenses such as drunkeness, disorderly conduct and vagrancy. Senators were shocked to learn that this vicious crime was not included in the UCR as a Part I Crime. As a result of this classification, accurate statistical data was not available to indicate how widespread the crime had become. Senator John Glenn stated: ". . . insurance industry losses due to arson are estimated to exceed $3 billion each year while the nation's total annual arson loss is estimated to be as high as $15 billion." Insurance industry representatives testified that the cost of arson to policyholders is at least 25 cents on each premium dollar. Furthermore, arson fires claim the lives of at least 1,000 persons each year--including the lives of 45 firefighters.

The U. S. Senate Hearings resulted in a number of significant actions:

- Arson was recognized as the nation's fastest growing and costliest crime.
- Arson was reclassified as a Part I Crime in recognition of the urgent need to collect accurate statistical data for the Federal Bureau of Investigation's UCR System.
- Federal agency administrators received a Congressional mandate that all federal agencies coordinate their efforts to assist local and state jurisdictions in the development of anti-arson programs.

ARSON FOR PROFIT IN WASHINGTON STATE Even while the 1978 U.S. Senate Hearings on Arson were underway, arson was being used as an underworld gangland-type enforcement tool in the State of Washington. This shocking revelation, which underscored the testimony heard at the U.S. Senate Hearings, was revealed during the recent Pierce County racketeering trial which resulted in the conviction of seven persons. This news captured local headlines and also attracted the attention of the Washington State Senate which appointed an Arson Oversight Committee to investigate the extent and impact of arson within the State of Washington.

UNIFORM STATEWIDE FIRE INCIDENT REPORTING Arson is a vicious crime against people. This fact prompted the Washington State Fire Marshal's Office (SFMO) to take advantage of the U.S. Senate's mandate that U.S. agencies coordinate their efforts to assist local jurisdictions in the development of anti-arson programs. The SFMO developed the following strategy: First, recognizing the importance of statistical data, a proposal was submitted to the U.S. Fire Administration (USFA) for funds to develop a Uniform Statewide Fire Incident Reporting System. A computerized system that would become an integral part of the National Fire Incident Reporting System (NFIRS) sponsored by the U.S. Fire Adminstration. A modest pilot program grant ($20,000) was awarded to the SFMO during the early part of 1979. When developed and implemented statewide, the program will provide for the first time, a coherent body of fire data which will reflect fire trends and fire problems within the State. Had such a system been in effect during the past several years, undoubtedly the rash of arson fires within Pierce County would have been detected at a much earlier stage.

STATEWIDE ARSON CONTROL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM When notified that the Uniform Fire Incident Pilot Program grant proposal had been approved and awarded to the State of Washington, follow-up strategy was implemented. A second grant proposal was submitted to the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) to develop a Statewide Arson Control Assistance Program. Both grant programs are interrelated; however, the Uniform Fire Incident Reporting System must be implemented statewide prior to the Arson Control Assistance Program if optimum results are to be achieved.

STATE-PRIVATE AGENCY COOPERATION IN FIGHT AGAINST ARSON The State Fire Marshal's Office and the Insurance Commissioner's Office worked cooperatively with private agencies in the statewide fight against the crime of arson. The establishment of the insurance industry's Property Insurance Loss Register (PILR) Program is a good example of this effort. The PILR Program, recently implemented, requires insurance companies operating within the State to report all fire losses to the Insurance Commissioner using a standard reporting method. This program, coupled with the proposed Uniform Statewide Fire Incident Reporting System, will provide a unique opportunity to compare what the insurance industry is saying about a fire and what the fire service is saying about the same fire. The program will allow us to further define the arson problem within the State.

ARSON REPORTING IMMUNITY ACT Closely related to the PILR Program is the Arson Reporting Immunity Act. This legislation will allow any insurer or person acting in its behalf or any authorized agency to release information related to undetermined, suspicious or arson fires. Persons or agencies may release such information with immunity from liability in any civil or criminal action suit or prosecution arising from release, unless actual malice on the part of the insurer or authorized agency against the insured is shown.

The above programs are all aimed at the detection and control of arson. Significant progress was made during the year. As each program develops and is implemented, the State Fire Marshal's Office, the fire service, law enforcement agencies and the insurance industry will each have more effective tools with which to deal with arson--the nation's fastest growing and costliest crime.

FIRE INVESTIGATION DIVISION The Fire Investigation Division, consisting of a supervisor and seven investigators, is responsible for the investigation of all fires of criminal, suspicious or undetermined origin and fires in which fraudulent claims are involved as reported by fire departments, law enforcement agencies, insurance companies and adjusters. The Division cooperates in the investigation of other fires, when assistance is requested, and also investigates fires on behalf of several state and federal agencies. In addition to the investigation to determine cause, the Division works directly with law enforcement agencies and prosecuting attorneys in the criminal investigation of known incendiary fires. The Division maintains files on all fires investigated or reported and assists other divisions in the investigation of fires occurring within licensed facilities falling within the Office's regulatory responsibilities.

FIRE INVESTIGATION FUNCTION The fire investigation function is limited at the present time to responding to requests for assistance from local fire, police and insurance agencies in the investigation of fires of criminal origin or cause, or fires of such magnitude that local officials feel the need for outside assistance. The Office's broad authority to investigate any fire at any location is restricted due to manpower constraints. It is our goal to investigate all fires in facilities in which the State Fire Marshal has regulatory authority to determine the effectiveness of current code requirements. It is also our goal to develop a Uniform Statewide Fire Incident Reporting System that will trigger the prompt investigation of all fires of known or suspected criminal origin that occur within the State. The Office is currently hampered by the lack of concise laws defining the basic responsibility for reporting and investigating fires as well as the lack of standards for such investigations. Legislation will be introduced in the 1980 session which, in addition to establishing a uniform manner of reporting and investigating fires, will also clearly define the responsibility and authority for such investigations.

The Fire Investigation Division has been active, aside from responding to local requests for assistance, in the investigation of fires and fire causes on behalf of various federal agencies. The recognized expertise of the office resulted in contracts with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), the National Bureau of Standards (NBS), and the U.S. Fire Administration (USFA) to determine the cause of certain consumer product type fires. Comprehensive investigations were conducted on mobile home fires and residential fires involving color television receivers, aluminum wiring, electric heating devices, smoke detectors and synthetic furnishings. These are all consumer product areas where adverse fire performance records were experienced nationally. Areas of future contract investigations may include fire hazards related to energy conservation such as combustible insulation, increased use of fireplaces, portable heating devices, and alternate fuels.

The Fire Marshal's Office was involved in the investigation of an epidemic of arson fires that occurred in Pierce County during 1977-78. Arson was used as a weapon of intimidation by which control of certain entertainment activities by syndicate-type operations was attempted. Evidence developed by State Fire Marshal Office investigators working with the then Pierce County Fire Marshal played an important role in the conviction of seven involved persons. Fire Marshal Office personnel received commendations from the U.S. Attorney for their significant contribution in the successful prosecution of the case.

FIREWORKS REGULATION FUNCTION The fireworks regulation function has long been perfunctory in nature, consisting almost entirely of the routine licensing of persons or firms and the approval of products. Enforcement measures through inspections, seizures of illegal fireworks, and other legal action have been rarely, if ever, initiated. The Fireworks Law, unchanged since the initial passage of the law in 1962, requires updating to reflect changes in the state of the art and the expanded regulatory role of the federal government. Revisions of the implementing regulations will be accomplished in the ensuing months. In an effort to expand the viability and effectiveness of the Office in the regulation of fireworks, a new pyrotechnic operator's examination was developed for the testing and licensing of applicants. Seizures of large quantities of illegal fireworks were conducted by the State Fire Marshal's Office, which resulted in the destruction of unsafe explosives otherwise destined for use by the public. Random inspections of retail fireworks stands were conducted. License revocation actions were brought against several persons for conducting unsafe public fireworks displays. The fireworks industry is being solicited for input and suggestions on legislative changes necessary to make the law effective. Such legislation will be introduced in the 1980 session of the Legislature, in order to interface the State Fireworks Law with new federal requirements.

One of the major problems with fireworks regulation is its seasonal nature. The public sale of fireworks is permitted for only nine days per year. It is, therefore, not possible to maintain a staff adequate in number to inspect all stands and displays. Even though the entire staff of the Fire Marshal's Office is generally diverted to the fireworks program for this brief period, there is still insufficient personnel to do an effective job statewide. It is doubtful if complete regulation of fireworks will ever be achieved, but an expanded effort, improved techniques, new legislation and public education programs can lead to greater public safety in this area.

The major fireworks problems in the State of Washington today are focused on the lack of clarity in Indian Law. Certain fireworks items sold on the Indian Reservations do not conform to state and/or federal standards. Due to statutory constrictions in the present Fireworks Law, close cooperation is required with local law enforcement agencies and prosecutorial authorities before regulation can be achieved at these locations.

The obsolete model rocketry testing and licensing regulation was replaced with informational guidelines based on the nationally recognized model rocket code. As a result of this administrative action the model rocketry license figures shown in the following table will not be illustrated in the July 1, 1979 - June 30, 1980 Annual Report.

RESIDENTIAL INSPECTION DIVISION The Residential Inspection Division provides inspection services for the Department of Social and Health Services. The statutory responsibilities of the State Fire Marshal's Office in the licensing of transient accommodations and child care agencies are met by a team of four field inspectors and a supervisor having statewide responsibility for inspection and approval. Field inspection staff personnel are located in Seattle and Olympia and are assigned responsibility for the following licensing inspections:

TYPE OF LICENSED FACILITY	STATUTORY AUTHORITY	NUMBER LICENSED	INSPECTION FREQUENCY
Transient Accommodations: Hotels, motels, resorts and condominiums offering 3 or more lodging units to transient guests for periods less than one month	RCW 70.62	1350	Annual
Child Care Agencies: Day Care Centers/Day Treatment Program	RCW 74.15	581*	Bi-Annual
Group Care Facilities: Groups Homes (up to 10 residents); Child Care Institutions (11 Residents or more)	RCW 74.15	132	Bi-Annual
Maternity Service Facility	RCW 74.15	28	Bi-Annual

*Does not include Mini Day Care Centers in private homes. There are approximately 40-45 such facilities at this time.

TRANSIENT ACCOMMODATIONS INSPECTION PROGRAM The transient accommodations inspection program gained substantial momentum during the period of this report. This increased emphasis was based on the policy of the State Fire Marshal that transient accommodations warranted priority attention by the field inspection staff (See chart, page 17).

In order to provide the widest possible inspection services, several agreements were negotiated with large metropolitan fire departments. Such agreements are contained in the administrative codes related to local enforcement of parallel or more restictive standards. The purpose of such agreements is to permit the field inspection staff to devote greater effort in areas where no professional fire and life safety inspection services exist Additionally, such agreements eliminate overlapping of state and local inspections within larger communities. The net effect of such agreements yielded a greater number of facilities inspected in a shorter period of time. Other benefits included the prompt identification and correction of hazards related to public safety in the lodging industry.

The Transient Accommodations Act, 70 62 RCW, is unlike other state laws mandating inspection and approval action by the State Fire Marshal. The law does not require State Fire Marshal approval before a license is issued. It merely requires that the State Fire Marshal shall "promulgate and enforce" the rules and regulations establishing fire and life safety requirements. As a result, the State Fire Marshal prepared a draft bill which was introduced in the 1979 session of the Legislature. The text of the proposed bill required State Fire Marshal approval before a transient accommodation license was issued. The bill failed to pass; however, similar attempts to amend RCW 70 62 will be initiated during the 1980 legislative session.

The increased number of transient accommodations inspections has brought about a number of appeals from licensees aggrieved by the corrective orders of the State Fire Marshal. Appeals are heard by the Director, Division of State Fire Marshal. The hearings are conducted on an informal basis, providing a realistic forum for solving the complex fire and life safety issues facing the licensee. In all appeals heard during the reporting period, acceptable solutions or agreements were reached. Such solutions have been acceptable to each party without compromising the safety of transient guests, and without having to proceed to a more formal hearing or to the courts.

CHILD CARE FACILITIES INSPECTION PROGRAM During the report period, a statewide increase in the number of child care facilities has substantially impacted the workload of the Residential Inspection staff. The increase is due partly to a greater number of mini day care programs in the residence of the licensee. Furthermore, there is an increasing demand for child care facilities that appears to be directly related to the growing number of working mothers. Many inspections were generated by owner/operator requests to increase occupant loads in existing licensed facilities. Additionally, special inspections were made to determine the suitability of a wide variety of structures for child care usage.

The negotiation of interdepartmental inspection agreements with select metropolitan fire departments provided a means for the Residential Inspection Division to focus attention on statewide locations not served by professional fire or building departments. Using improved administrative notification procedures between the Residential Inspection Division and the licensing agency (DSHS), several time-consuming steps in the inspection process were eliminated. Positive working relationships between field inspectors and the Department of Social and Health Services result in more rapid inspection services being provided the child care constituency.

Use of improved inspection guidelines and the dissemination of child care fire and life safety regulations has been increased. Several statewide seminars were conducted to focus attention on, and provide detailed explanations of, the fire and life safety regulations for child care facilities. Regulations for each category were bound in a brochure format and made available to fire departments, building departments, fire districts, local fire marshal offices, architects, fire prevention bureaus, and child care regional licensing offices. Upon receipt of an application at a regional licensing office, the applicants for licenses are made aware of the State Fire Marshal requirements well in advance of a formal inspection. The increased effectiveness in this area of the program is of unquestionable benefit to the applicant for a child care agency license.

During the 1979 legislative session, the passage of SSB 2768 brought about the need to inspect a new facility category--the Juvenile Detention Facility. Though the State Fire Marshal has no authority to promulgate regulations for penal facilities, sites selected by DSHS are evaluated for general compliance with Chapter 212-63 WAC to determine the suitability of the facility for use in the juvenile detention program. At the close of the reporting period, four sites had been subject to preliminary survey for use in the juvenile detention program.

Many hours of staff time were committed toward protecting guests in hotels placed on national and/or state historic registers. A balance was struck between the requirements for historic authenticity of the facility and the more serious need for the protection of life and property from the hazards of fire. Close cooperation was enjoyed between effected state agencies and owner/operators of these properties. The development of a fire protection handbook for historic hotels was initiated with a June 1980 completion date.

Through a total reorganization effort, an additional employee will be placed in Eastern Washington (Spokane), beginning January 1980, to better serve the eastern part of the State. Consideration is also underway for a possible Yakima placement of a Residential Inspection team member.

HEALTH CARE INSPECTION DIVISION-MEDICAL ASSISTANCE SUPPORT TEAM The Health Care Inspection Division, consisting of a supervisor and four inspectors, is responsible for the inspection and approval for licensing of all hospitals, nursing homes, boarding homes and private establishments serving the physically and mentally handicapped and those suffering from drug or alcoholic related conditions.

The Division also conducts Life Safety Code surveys in approximately 350 facilities under contract with the Department of Social and Health Services. By meeting the requirements of the Life Safety Code, the facilities are eligible to obtain an agreement for participation in federally sponsored Medicare and Medicaid programs.

During this reporting period, the number of boarding homes increased by 10. Almost all of these are located in existing family dwellings. It is the responsibility of the Fire Marshal's Office to make certain that the facility meets minimum fire and life safety standards. About 50 percent of the original applications are eventually licensed.

PUBLIC EDUCATION The need for a public education program was identified in the 1977-78 Annual Report through a formal public education assistance program which is in the planning stage under a grant from the U.S. Fire Administration. The grant was applied for in November 1978, after a proposal was written by a committee consisting of fire-oriented organizations. The proposal was accepted and the grant awarded for Phase I. The program started on April 30, 1979, and will end on April 30, 1980. Phase I includes the development of a statewide public education program. Phase I of the plan must be completed by April 30, 1980, in order to apply for Phase II-A and II-B grants which will help finance the implementation of the program during the following two year period. The grant is administered by the State Fire Marshal's Office under the authority of RCW 48.48.100.

The need for a statewide fire education program has been established through communication with the fire service and other community service agencies regarding the continuing loss of life and property. Programs must be designed to assist communities to:

. identify the local fire problem.
. establish program objectives.
. identify available community resources.
. design a specific program.
. develop the program.
. implement the program.

Following the design, development and implementation of the program, an evaluation procedure will be established to assure that the program objectives are being met.

Two advisory committee meetings, attended by local and statewide community organization representatives, have been held. Additionally, fire service and community representatives have attended two workshops conducted in four geographical areas of the State to receive an introduction to the planning process and plan the development of a program resource system.

A third workshop will be held during the month of January 1980, to present an overview of state and national programs. The workshop will be held in conjunction with the Washington State Fire Prevention Officers Annual Workshop.

STATE FIRE MARSHAL'S NEWSLETTER In order to develop an effective avenue of communication with the fire service of the state, law enforcement agencies and the insurance industry, the State Fire Marshal's Office has developed a bi-monthly Newsletter. The publication is used primarily to keep the fire service and related agencies informed on matters that may impact fire and life safety on a statewide or local basis.

A major objective of the Newsletter will be to expand Fire Prevention Week within Washington State to a 52-week-per-year event. Each issue will feature seasonal fire prevention tips. For example:

. October - National Fire Prevention Week and Halloween Fire Safety for Children.
. November-December - Holiday Season Fire Hazards.
. January-February-March - Winter Fire Hazards.
. April-May-June - Spring Clean-Up.
. July-August - Safe and Sane 4th of July - Camping and Wildland Fire Safety.
. September - School Fire Safety

Furthermore, the Newsletter will regularly feature articles that relate to the current concerns of the fire service, such as:

. hazardous materials transportation incidents.
. wood burning stove hazards.
. hazards related to energy conservation.
. school fire safety.
. arson detection, preservation of evidence and related information.

The Newsletter will be particularly useful to volunteer, or part-paid fire departments within the State. It is often overlooked that approximately 80 percent of the State's firstline fire defenses are made up of volunteer departments manned by volunteer firefighters.

SUMMARY The close of the 1979 fiscal year saw a reorganized State Fire Marshal's Office with increased productivity in all divisions as well as a number of new program developments. The hotel/motel fire and life safety inspections improved the safety and well-being of the citizens of our State as well as out-of-state guests. A major focus on alerting overnight guests through properly installed fire alarms and unobstructed, clearly delineated exiting in hotel-motel facilities will continue to be sought.

The Medical Team continued to maintain standards requiring the same level of fire protection for patients whether the facility is located in a remote rural area or in a downtown metropolitan area.

The Fire Investigation Division's professionalism was documented in the recent Pierce County racketeering trials when arson evidence developed by the State Fire Marshal's Office was used by the U.S. Attorney to convict seven members of a syndicate-type arson ring. The formation of a Senate Oversight Committee on Arson bodes well for an in-depth examination of the arson problem in the State of Washington and the need for documentation through uniform statewide fire incident reporting.

The State Fire Marshal is, and will continue to be, a major force in the fight against arson. Expanded resources to a proven performer argue for the ever-increasing apprehension, arrest and conviction of the perpetrators of arson--the nation's fastest growing and costliest crime.
